OKR FOUNDATION COURSE
for a successful OKR START

“Ideas are easy, execution is everything” – John Doerr

WHY OBJECTIVES AND KEY RESULTS ?

Execution is key to the growth of organizations especially in this agile and fast-moving business world. Being in the tricky intersection of investors, customers and employees, business owners and managers need to balance priorities, align teams and create visionary products and services that work.

Moreover, in this age of changing business models, business owners and managers have to be agile enough to absorb and quickly react to changes and consumer needs. OKRs help to make smarter and faster business decisions.

When adopting a new methodology like OKRs, teams can easily lose interest overtime or refuse to even give it a try. So, what can be done to solve this problem?

While there are many different things you can try, at the OKR Institute we have seen one tactic work particularly well with our clients: having internal or external OKR Coaches who train and make employees OKR Experts in their organization for making sure the OKR implementation is a success.
